

PDX.Gold Gains a Seasoned Supplier in the Midwest: The Extractory

Portland, Ore. July 14, 2022 - PDX.Gold Extraction Technology today announced it has formed a strategic alliance with The Extractory effective immediately.

The goal of joining these two companies is to provide easy access to quality extraction equipment manufactured in the Pacific Northwest, and make it available to the emerging cannabis and hemp oil processors who are starting up business in newly legal states across the Midwest and East Coast.

Having a distributor in the Midwest opens up a huge opportunity for PDX.Gold to reach an audience of cannabis processors that wouldn't normally come across their product line but now have the opportunity to see it in person, witness a live demonstration, talk to a salesperson and ask questions and get instant answers. "We're very excited about this alliance, we've known for some time now that the cannabis extraction industry was only going to continue expanding East with legalization, just look at OKC! So once we found a distributor that not only had an in-depth knowledge of the extraction process and equipment, but was also reliable and trustworthy, we knew we had to partner with them ASAP," said James Davies, co-owner of PDX.Gold.

The Extractory is more than a distributor, they are experienced engineers, fabricators and assemblers, ready to help you build the extraction lab of your dreams. "I wanted to work with PDX.Gold because, like us, they design and build their equipment domestically in the States rather than outsource it, this is an important factor to consider when going into business with another company. I also sincerely believe that they have made an excellent product that I am impressed with and it just makes good business sense to get these pumps out in the market," says Peter Conway, CEO of The Extractory.

ABOUT

PDX.Gold, established in 2017, designs and manufactures certified closed loop extraction ancillary equipment, specifically hydrocarbon vapor recovery pumps and filter driers. The equipment is uniquely designed to meet the rigorous demands and standards of the cannabis extraction industry; strictly food-grade components, proper 3rd party certifications, and engineered to be intrinsically safe.

ABOUT

The all-in-one extraction mecca of the Midwest, established in 2020, The Extractory is comprised of expert engineers, fabricators, and assemblers who are sure to exceed expectations for whatever your growing business may need. Training, consultation, custom engineering – they've got it covered. The Extractory provides product and design solutions for any extraction or distillation requirement, from pilot to industrial scale.
